

What are IDAs?

Individual Development Accounts (IDAs) offer matching cash for asset building, information about financial systems, and community-based support for Oregonians with low to moderate incomes. Participants use IDA match dollars to leverage the power of their own savings in support of their financial goals. These combined funds provide a resource to avoid wealth-stripping situations, to increase near-term financial stability, and to invest in core wealth-building assets such as a first home. The statewide coalition of partners that make up the IDA Initiative has worked to act on solutions coming from communities most impacted by an inequitable economy. The result is a community-affirmed program, centered in racial equity, that supports Oregonians to exercise greater self-determination and make meaningful improvements to their financial well-being. Since 2008:

- ▶ More than 16,000 Oregon residents have saved in IDAs
- ▶ Collectively, IDA participants have made savings deposits of more than $33 million
- ▶ More than 2,800 people are currently saving
- ▶ $62 million in state matching dollars have been distributed to approximately 11,000 savers for asset investments
- ▶ IDAs have been opened in 35 of Oregon's 36 counties
- ▶ All participants are provided information about financial systems and community-based supports to build financial capability and successfully reach their goals

Match amounts and asset goals vary by saver, with timelines ranging from 6 months to 3+ years. Above is an example of a saver's journey through the program.
